Multi Device Management

With smart phones and tablets becoming indispensable to employees and businesses, and many employees choosing to “bring your own device” (BYOD) to access corporate data, there is an increasing need for a solution for managing corporate-owned and personal devices in the workplace.

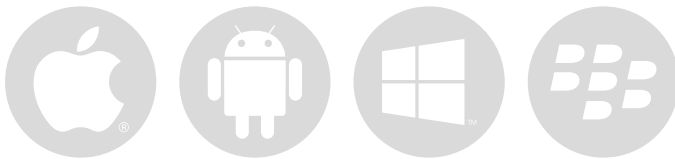

Multi Device Management

Mobile Device Management (MDM) allows businesses to provide employees with access to internal networks using a device of their choice, whilst these devices are monitored and managed remotely from a central console, with minimum disruption to employees.

As well as central control, MDM typically includes “over the air” distribution of applications, data and configuration settings for smart phones and tablets. Employee and business demand for smart phone and tablet access to business applications and data is requiring a new approach to MDM, with a greater need for increased security - both for the devices, and for the enterprise they connect to. MDM can help to reduce business risks, optimising the functionality and the security of a mobile device, while minimising cost and downtime. Companies also get the added benefit of telecoms expense management while complying with today’s security concerns.

Mobile Device Management software enables corporate IT departments to manage the many mobile devices used across the enterprise; consequently, over-the-air capabilities are in high demand. The software platforms ensure that end users benefit from “plug and play” data services for whatever device they are using. Such a platform can automatically detect devices on the network, sending them settings for immediate and continued usability. The process is fully automated, keeps a history of used devices and sends settings only to subscriber devices.

Sure International is pleased to offer a range of MDM platforms, for Android, iOS, BlackBerry and Windows devices, with two management options - “on premise” or “cloud”.

For further information, please contact one of our Sure International account directors on business@sure.com who will be delighted to help you understand how MDM could help your business.
